

IARW, International Association of Refrigerated Warehouses

Krack is a member and sponsor of the International Association of Refrigerated Warehouses (IARW). This association, which was founded in 1891, is focused on providing its members with knowledge and innovative ideas to promote quality in the controlled-temperature warehouse and logistics industry.

The IARW's vision is to "build, strengthen and represent the global temperature-controlled warehouse and logistics industry," which they fulfill through research, education, networking, and by advising members about how to comply with new regulations within the industry.

The IARW is a Core Partner of the Global Cold Chain Alliance (GCCA). The GCCA concerns itself with the temperature control of perishable foods from harvest to consumer. It emphasizes quality and safety in the production and transportation of low-temperature perishable foods.
